DAYBREAK CHARTER SCHOOL OPENING FALL 2009
Early Light Academy begins enrollment

(October 30, 2008) — The Early Light Academy, a new charter school in Daybreak opening in fall 2009, will begin the enrollment process in combination with a parent information night on Thursday (Nov.6) at 7:00 pm. This free session, open to the public, will be held at the Daybreak Community Center located at 4544 West Harvest Moon Drive in South Jordan.

In addition to learning about the enrollment and lottery process, parents will have the opportunity to meet the Early Light Academy's governing board and their chosen team of experts including Academica West, Atlas Architects, and K12 Inc.

"The Early Light Academy seeks to balance the study of the past with a vision of the future," stated Mia Prazen, board president. "Our desire is to provide students with a rich, interactive learning experience that will not just give them a set of facts to memorize, but will equip them to become engaged, productive members of a complicated world community."

Granted approval by the Utah State Board of Education, the public school will accept kindergarten through eighth grade during its first year, adding the ninth grade in Fall 2010. At full capacity, total enrollment will be at 750 students. Classroom size will not exceed 25 students.
